Message from the Chair

In 2021-22, the Dehcho Land Use Planning Committee had a quiet year in order to comply with NWT Covid-19 Health Orders. The Committee continued its review of the many comments provided by Canada, GNWT and Dehcho First Nations in 2019 from an internal review of a draft plan. Many activities related to public involvement were deferred, such as workshops with Dehcho resource managers, updating the Dehcho Dene place names map and supporting the annual Dehcho Youth Ecology Camp.

The Committee also adjusted the timelines in its two year road map to complete and approve the Dehcho Land Use Plan in order to implement social distancing and other safety measures in response to COVID-19. The Committee was able to continue to meet using conference calls.

Highlights in 2021-22 were completing the review of comments submitted by Kát'odeeche First Nation, engagement with Aboriginal Governments whose asserted traditional territory may overlap with the Dehcho and a March 31, 2022 meeting with the Dehcho Process Main Table to develop a process to obtain direction on outstanding issues. The Committee was able to maintain the public profile of the plan with the mail-out of our 2020-21 annual report flyer to Dehcho households. A summer student, Jacqueline Bouvier, was hired. Students were not at school and no applications were received for the annual Leo Norwegian Memorial Scholarship.

If you want to learn more about the Dehcho Land Use Plan, the Committee can provide a presentation or information. Just call us!

Chair, Joachim Bonnetrouge

What is the purpose of a Dehcho Land Use Plan?

The Purpose of a Dehcho Land Use Plan is "to promote the social, cultural and economic well-being of residents and communities in the Dehcho territory, having regard for the interests of all Canadians" (IMA,S.3). That is why traditional land use is the foundation of the draft Interim Dehcho Land Use Plan. Under the proposed plan, the areas of highest traditional land use are protected. Resource potential was also assessed to identify zones where economic development activities could take place.
